“I am working on projects and using the skills I have learned as well as building my portfolio as a business analyst. I look forward to gaining further qualifications through the apprenticeship routes.”

I grew up in South Africa where I completed 2 years of university towards a BA in Humanities, but decided it wasn't for me. I attended out of a sense of obligation rather than passion.

In 2014 I came to the UK to build a life for myself. After establishing myself in the Health and Social care industry I realised what I wanted; to work within the Technology sector. With no experience I expected to find that the dream was out of my reach, but I came across an apprenticeship advert on the government portal and decided to go for it, I had nothing to lose.

Now I am working on projects and using the skills I have learned as well as building my portfolio as a business analyst. I look forward to the EPA at the end of the year and gaining further qualifications through the apprenticeship routes.
