

Terry Igharoro, is the author of Think Like an Entrepreneur and GROW RICH, a professional speaker, consultant and executive coach. He is the founder of Entrepreneur Alchemy, a personal development company that specializes in unlocking and enhancing an individuals entrepreneurial mind state to assist them in moving from where they are to where they want to be with their career.

At 16, Terry started his first business, a car rental company and then went on to launch a luxury lifestyle magazine at 21, which managed to get stocked in Harrods and Selfridges in London. Over the years Terry has managed to successfully secure seed rounds of investments and raise hundreds of thousands of pounds for his clients. He assisted a start up client to go from £0 to over £100k in revenue in less than 8 months. Three UK awarded him as their Digital Mobile Champion for his contribution in assisting small businesses to go digital. Terry graduated from University East London with a BSc (hons) in Business Information Systems. He is a CPD accredited speaker and has delivered talks and training to organisations such as Microsoft, NHS Wales, The British Computer Society (BCS), Central Working, Nacue, The Springboard Charity, Digital Leaders Conference, City University London and Birmingham University. Terry was recently recognized as one of the top 75 most inspirational black businesspeople in the 2016 RBS sponsored annual publication 'BE MOGUL'.

Terry's mission is to challenge the status-quo thinking about entrepreneurship because he believes if we all think like entrepreneurs we can unlock more of our human potential.
